* WISCONSIN DAIRY FARMERS ARE LOOKING FOR CHANGE IN 2021

According to the Dairy Farmers of Wisconsin, they contribute more than $45 billion to our local economy. While dairy farmers took a big hit in 2020, they're looking for a major change for 2021. We all remember the gut-wrenching video of milk dumping in the early months of the pandemic and as the country dealt with the spread of COVID-19 we unintentionally slowed the flow of milk. Amy Penterman, President of the Dairy Business Association says, "The first half of last year was frightening for a lot of farmers when restaurants and schools closed down the demand for milk cheese and other dairy products just disappeared overnight dairy farmers were all still producing milk but no place for it to go."

* MORE THAN $43 MILLION INCLUDED IN STATE BUDGET FOR AGRICULTURE

MADISON, Wis. (WMTV) - More than $43 million will be included in the 2021-23 biennial budget Wisconsin's agriculture industry, Gov. Tony Evers announced Friday. According to a news release, the funding will effort the expansion of agriculture market opportunities, support innovative farming practices and connect local producers to food banks, among other goals. Gov. Evers explained that it is time to ensure financial success for rural communities and the entire state when it comes to agriculture, especially amid the pandemic. "Our agricultural industry is Wisconsin's past and present, and it will be our future," he said. "Our proud farming history is core to our state's culture and people, and Wisconsin farmers have carried and supported our state economy for generations."
